If setting up on Android can you just give the log in info to the customer and have them download the app to their Apple phone?	Yes. Once the account is created, anyone who logins with the same credentials regardless of phone type will have access to anything on that account
When doing multiple devices in a room, the app reorganized my devices in a different order than added and not in alphanumeric order. Is there an order of listed view that is predetermined by IP address or something? I desire to put them in order as in the room.	You can long press on the devices on the screen and move them in any order you desire, just like you would with phone apps on your phone home screen.
Does my app automatically update to the new version or do I need to download the new one?	After this app update is downloaded, all future updates will happen automatically or else the user will get a notification telling them their app version is out of date and require them to download the updated app version.
